Woman Writes of European Conflict

The European war was caused by men, are being called into the war, and France mobilizing their troops first, and neither the Emperor nor the people of Germany wanted war, according to Mrs. Lenkeit, of Berlin, who has written an interesting letter to her son, H. A. Lenkeit, a sign painter of this city.

According to Mrs. Lenkeit, conditions are not bad in Berlin, and supplies are plentiful. She says that her 17 year old son, along with other young men of similar age, volunteered for war duty, but that their services were refused. Another son, 27 years old, who belongs to the reserves, also did not take part in the war because his services are not needed. Reports that very young men are being called into the war, are denied by Mrs. Lenkeit. B. A. Lenkeit has been in the war. His father is a tire manufacturer of Berlin. He came to America when a partially young man.

assistance and co-operation.

Therefore, we urgently beg you cut the following blank out with your record and promptly to Mrs. E. T. Gammell, Dothan, Ala., who will send it to the Museum, and get them in order for permanent form. PROHIBITION IN ARMIES

Com. social April. That prohibition can be made to prohibit is proved by conditions in the French, German and Russian armies that are now fighting the biggest and longest battle in history.

Our legislatures make our laws and send them out to be observed, and in our peaceful country, with no great excitement to tempt us, and with constables and sheriffs and police to enforce them, we set those laws aside with an easy shrug and continue our daily visitations thru the swinging doors that lead on to the "hard" drinks counters. If, by any chance, these haunts are closed, we speedily open others surreptitiously, and continue our "treating" or our self-indulgence.

To us the law is little more than an inconvenience; in no way is it really prohibitive.

And it is thus, not through any defect in the law itself, but because of the lack of official enforcement.

As an effect to this, let us look at the fighting European armies, and particularly at Russia. The people of that country are excessive consumers of vodka, the native intoxicating drink. To think of Russia without vodka is to think of a river with out a current; the two have been inseparably twined in the public mind.

And yet, in one day, by the issuance of one ukase by the czar vodka has been cut out of the life of the soldier Russian.

The Russian commanders realized that to win this war men must be always at their best, able to think clearly and act definitely. This could not be if the brain was muddled with the passions inflamed by strong drink. German and French officers took the same view, and so we have the remarkable spectacle of a sober soldier fighting a mad campaign. We hear of no violations of the sobriety order; nobody suggests a "blind tiger" in the ranks.

The law is obeyed because the authorities say it must be. Everybody knows that disobedience would be followed by a sure and swift payment of the penalty, and this conviction engenders its own respect for the order. These nations have accomplished swiftly and easily the reform about which we have been talking for years. They are an example to us of what can be accomplished when the authorities behind the law are really and definitely in earnest.

Texas, which is a 5,000,000 bale state, should take some action. The legislature is in session, and the cotton states would like to see that state make a move. When this is done, the other little states could then follow suit, or take some action that would be in line.

Solved once for all by Calumet. For daily use in millions of kitchens has proved that Calumet is highest not only in quality but in leavening power as well—unfailing in results—pure to the extreme—and wonderfully economical in use. Ask your grocer. And try Calumet next bake day.

DOTHAN AGAIN POINTS THE WAY.

Birmingham News.

They have a way of taking the lead in doing obvious and effective things down at Dothan. Not long ago her business men took the lead in agreeing to pay ten cents for cotton in payment of accounts and in trade. Now they have tired of waiting for congress or the state to legislate on cotton acreage, and they have done this, according to a news story:

"Dothan banks have taken a firm stand in an effort to get the farmers to cut their cotton acreage at least 50 per cent next year. In a big mass meeting of farmers, bankers and merchants held here G. H. Malone, cashier of the First National Bank, voiced the sentiment of all the banks in the city, when he said that the First National Bank would not advance money to a single farmer another year who did not agree to reduce his cotton acreage 50 per cent."

"The farmers were promised that not a one of them would be unduly crowded for collections, that they would be assisted in holding the present crop as much as possible."

That sounds like a common-sense and effective restriction, as well as proof of sympathetic consideration. It is probable that most farmers will have the sagacity and the self-control to hold down acreage, but for those who may need outside control, indisputably the most effective will not be of national or state origin. It must come from close home, from those who have a direct interest and an abundant opportunity for enforcement—from the advancing merchants and the town bankers. Economic laws are the broadest, deepest, most effective because they are virtually automatic.

It is quite probable that the Dothan process of reducing acreage will become quite general throughout the state.

THE FIGHTERS MUST EAT.

It has been over two months now since the price of cotton was shot to pieces. From the first demoralizing reports people began to offer remedies, telling what the government, both state and national, should do. So far nothing has been done. Cotton has steadily gone lower, and looks like it hasn't reached the bottom yet. The buy-a-bale movement has helped the individual who got 10 a pound for his cotton. The local merchants who paid 10c for cotton on account, or in trade, helped a few, but in spite of all this cotton has gone lower.

The movement on the part of the bankers and merchants of St. Louis to make up a jack pot of $150,000,000 to place on cotton, to loan on it, at say, 5c per pound, which, as they figure, will tie up about 5,000,000 bales, appears good. This plan has been approved by Secretary McAdoo and something may come of it that will be beneficial in pricing up the price. But with it all, the farmer, if he sells cotton, has to sell it for half price.

Senator Hankhead's plan to hold the State for $40,000,000 isn't going to work. It has some faults, and then there are politicians who see danger in this move. From the politicians, we need expect nothing in this time. It isn't a thing they can work at, unless they see political preferment in. We must work it ourselves. This crop's a goner. We can keep it off the market as long as possible, and may win out by that, but many can't do that. They will have to turn in and get what they can.

We shouldn't let this thing happen next year. Begin now to prepare for another crop—not a cotton crop, but a food crop. The fighters must eat.

WRITE AUBURN.

The Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn is an institution of the state with a department specially for the farmer. At this time when there is so much uncertainty as to what to do, it is a good time for Alabama farmers to lay their plans before Prof. J. F. Duggar, the head of the agricultural department. He, no doubt, wouldn't undertake to tell each farmer what he should do, but he could give expert advice on the various crops that are suited to Alabama soil, for he is familiar with this phase of the business.

He could tell where to obtain seed and when to plant, and what fertilizers to use. We all know how to grow corn and cotton, for that's all we've ever grown, but there are other things we must turn to in order to make a living now since cotton has proved so uncertain, and it is a good time to get advice from a man who has worked out the experimental part of it.

When in doubt, write Auburn.

FIVE THINGS THE COTTON FARMER SHOULD DO.

In a time like this when the air is full of schemes and dreams, many of them impossible of realization, it seems to us that the thing to do is to keep reminding our cotton farmers of four or five simple, practicable ways for getting through their threatened dangers. At the risk of being guilty of what Shakespeare calls damnable iteration therefore, we again call attention to five things that should be undertaken in every county in the South:

1. The local and county Unions everywhere should meet to discuss the situation and decide as to what can be done in their own communities. Then meetings of all cotton growers should be called so as to insure the co-operation of farmers in and out of the organization.

2. Resolve to hold all cotton if prices drop measurably, and arrange storage places in all markets, finding out also what are the best loan bankers will make on warehoused cotton. In nearly every town we may find some building that will do for storing cotton, even if no regular warehouse exists, and if not too near the center of trade, the rent should not be high.

3. Arrange "selling days" whereupon groups of farmers may put together the cotton they wish to sell, having it graded and priced by experts and sold in pools. The chances are that the confusion of the markets this fall will enable unscrupulous buyers—and there are some unscrupulous men in every business—to take advantage of the more ignorant farmers (both as to grades and prices) more flagrantly than ever before. It is a time when the strong must help protect the weak.

4. Pass red-hot resolutions at your Union meetings and cotton growers' meetings as to the national legislation needed and send these resolutions to your senators and representatives, following them up with short personal letters. A bill such as Senator Hoke Smith has introduced probably stands the best chance of passage; a bill which would set aside half the South's proportion of emergency currency for the express purpose of financing the cotton crop.

5. Remember that wheat, corn, oats, hay and forage of all kinds are likely to be higher next spring than ever before—certainly if the war continues until then. There has never been a time in the history of the South when it was more important to preach the gospel of "hog and hominy" than right now. Farmers who have planted the feed crops The Progressive Farmer has advised are already in luck. Farmers who take our advice and sow abundant crops of clover, vetch, rye, oats, etc., are likely to be in yet bigger luck next spring.—The Progressive Farmer.

R. E. Stokes, of Abbeville, is in the city, having been drawn on the federal grand jury, which court starts at Dothan today.

WHAT THE PACKING HOUSE AGENCY WILL MEAN TO HOUSTON CO. NEXT YEAR

Next to a packing house Dothan has now the best possible arrangement for the development of the hog and cattle industry. We refer to the agency established here by the Moultrie Packing Plant. Next year the farmers can bring their hogs and other live stock which in proper condition to Dothan and sell them for cash.

It is hard to over estimate the importance at this present time. We cannot count upon the cotton crop next year. We know that it must be cut in half and the balance of the land planted in corn, peanuts, potatoes, etc. How to sell these has been the question. But with a cash market for hogs it is practically settled.

We hope every farmer in the county will have at least a few hogs to sell to the packing plant next year. To hogs less than a year old will bring around $200. Is there a farmer in Houston county who can not do this? They can be sold for cash on foot. At present the market price is $1.50 per hundred pounds live weight.

This is the opportunity for the farmers. Remember the Government serum now available is an absolute preventive of cholera if used.

FOUGHT HARD TO KEEP HIS JOB

Indiana Man All Run Down— Had No Strength—No Energy Left—Blood Poor— How Vinol Helped Him.

Shelbyville, Ind. — "I was all run-down, had no energy, my blood was so poor I felt badly all the time and my face was covered with pimples. I am a clerk in the hotel and had to put up an awful fight to keep at work."

"I tried Beef, Iron and Wine, and other remedies without benefit. I learned of how Vinol had helped others and decided to try it. After taking the first bottle I noticed a great improvement in my condition. I continued taking it and now I am rid of all my troubles and cannot say anything too good for Vinol."—ROY F. BIRD, Shelbyville, Ind.

For all run-down, weak, devalued conditions of men and women, nothing equals Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy. It creates an appetite, aids digestion, makes pure, healthy blood. In this natural manner it builds up strength and vitality.

Try a bottle with the understanding you can get your money back if Vinol does not help you.

Atavism in Dogs.
Dogs probably the closest of domesticated animals when transferred to a tropical country, such as central Africa, lose in a few generations most of the characteristics they have acquired in Europe and revert more and more to the type of the jackal and the wolf. Then their ears whatever their breed tend to become pointed their coats turn sandy or rufous and their bark becomes a howl. Some attempt has been made to show that this is the result of disease and resembles the effect of malaria on the human constitution. Yet the Egyptian dog, of Pharaonic times possessed as in seen by the monuments these very characteristics and as he was certainly domesticated before the European invasion it is probable that these are original features of the race.

No Two Finger Prints Alike
And every human being in the world of finger prints is different from every other. This is not true in the respect to how an arving identification marks. The little ten ridged skin who have to be blue and red in hue to tell them apart are as thick in the finger prints as if they are longed to entirely different fathers and mothers. Family resemblance is a joke when you come to put the finger tip prints under the magnifying glass. The digit marks make no account of blue blood aristocracy, delect or physiognomy. They are lost creases in the skin.

"O O S"
The symbol "O O S" is used in the United States simply means "Hurry up." Drop everything and get help to him at the earliest possible moment. Apart from this there is nothing to the call. The letters were scheduled because they are the best calculated to carry the hurry up call.

To Filter Quickly.
A filter that is quickly made and that acts quickly is just a piece of chamois leather. Select a good piece free from thin places, and wash it in a weak solution of soda or any alkali to remove the grease. Rinse it thoroughly in cold water before it is used. A pint of the filtrate will run through this in four or five minutes and by washing the chamois skin thoroughly after each using it will last a long time.

Keeping Within the Law
She—But why did you have to be so—
He—To deliver our wedding invitations in ahead of sending them by post. Just couldn't afford to take any chances. She—Chances of what?
He—Being arrested. Don't you know it is unlawful to send lottery tickets through the post?

Pithy Sayings
"I've would never have become involved with the serpent if she had had another woman to gossip with. Men must work and women must keep. But the women seem to get more pleasure out of their end of the job. The happier girl is she to whom a great variety of hats is becoming—Smart Set."

Teeth for Drunkenness.
In a recent court of inquiry in an Indiana town a former bartender was called to the stand as an expert in the matter of what constitutes drunkenness. "Of course, when a man can't track right, he's drunk," said the former bartender, "but outside of that I'm always sure he's 'right' if he cries and tells what a good wife and family he has, tells me in confidence he is making $5,000 a year, or practices a sermon to all his fellow-parishes on the evils of drink."

I WONDER?

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

(Reprinted by permission from Good Housekeeping Magazine for June)

Out on the deck I sit,
While the ship speeds on apace—
Oh, life is a joy at sea!
(I wonder would it be
Had it happened that mine were the place
Down in the hot, close hold of the boat,
To stoke the engine and keep it afloat?)

I read, and rest, and dream,
Beside the glowing grate;
And life seems a thing so good.
(I wonder if it would
Had it happened that mine were the fate
To dig like a worm in the deep, dark mold,
That the world above me might keep off cold?)

I read the morning news,
Here in this cozy spot;
And life seems a thing so sweet,
(I wonder would I meet
The coming day with as glad a thought
Had I toiled all night till the break of the dawn
That the world might know what is going on?)

On the flying train I speed
Oh, for a holiday;
And life is a lazy dream.
(I wonder how it would seem

If I sat while the dark night paled to gray,
Watching the signals with eyes astray,
And my whole thought bent on guiding the train?)

Guardian Angels who fill sky spaces
Unseen helpers and spirit friends,
Bless all the toilers in humble places
On whom the comfort of earth depends
And awaken the heart of the world till it heed
Their cry of need.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat also Take Glass of Water Before Eating Breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick head, ache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys, and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

The many friends of Mr. Royce Crawford will be interested in the following clipping which appeared in the University paper, "Crimson and White:"

"The opening number of the first meeting of the Germania Club was a solo by Mr. Royce Crawford. Mr. Crawford sang 'The End of a Perfect Day' with a keen appreciation. The club was so pleased with Mr. Crawford's voice that the unobscured applause brought forth an encore fully as good as the first song."

Friends of Mr. Carl Simonton will be glad to know that he has improved sufficiently to be at work again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bennett are at home with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gellerstedt on Bell Street.

PLEASURE FOUND IN LABOR—

Why do so many people continually look and hope for a time when they will have so much money that they will be released from work when history and experience teach that the world's workers are the happiest? It is noticeable that those who for a time have given up work are not contented until they return to it again. They may enjoy the leisure for a time, but it is not lasting pleasure.

Expression is said to bring greater pleasure than impression. The pleasure derived from the hearing of music is small in comparison with that of the musician who is enabled to give out the beautiful tones through her voice or the instrument over which she has control. The same is true of the painting, which may be a delight to all beholders, but how small is the joy which it gives to them in comparison to that of the painter who alone in his studio pursues an endeavor possibly for weeks or months to give out this idea to the world. It does not take long to exhaust the pleasure of having things, but the pleasure of doing things is exhaustible.

Happy is the woman who has found her place as one of the world's workers, for she has the opportunity of expressing her thoughts and ideas. It may be the housewife in the kitchen, planning the and happiness of the family; teacher in the school, the maker, stenographer, saleswoman, writer or musician, whatever occupation, she is enabled to give self to meet the world's need, give expression to ideas which have been clamoring to be expressed since childhood.

Much of the dissatisfaction many women manifest comes from the desire which every one possesses in varying degrees, to do things, to be active in the world's work, the finding of the niche in which one belongs changes the whole look and gives a sense of joy, mere money could never supply.
